Jim Hermes gave a verbal update on The Financial Report for month and year ending February 2021. February’s operations were negatively impacted by our electronic medical record conversion. For much of the month we limited our volumes to ensure patients would not be unduly inconvenienced as we learned to master the new system. As a result, our revenue decreased 17% from January and we posted our first operational loss since September. However, we remain profitable on a year to date basis. 		system, excited to have interoperability between our clinics, ER and hospital, and looking forward to returning to pre-implementation service levels. Other issues of note: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • We've seen a shift from insured patients to self-pay, with self-pay volumes increasing from 2.9% of volume in FY 2019 to 5.3% for the past 20 months. The board's support for our deeply discounted self-pay rates has helped our patients continue to receive vital care at costs most can afford. - On January 25th we converted to our new electronic health record to improve interoperability between the Clinics and Hospital. The new system has been well received by physicians and staff who now have access to a patient's complete chart, enhancing their ability to ensure the continuity of care envisioned when choosing the new system. As expected, the implementation has resulted in increased staffing costs to train and understand the new system's functionality. • In February, we saw a drop in costs for COVID-19 testing. All over the US, many states have seen a decrease in testing as more individuals are getting vaccinated. According to experts, there are a number of reasons, including declining cases, increased vaccination, and pandemic fatigue. They say that people should still get tested even if they've been vaccinated, so that they know whether they risk passing the disease to others. • We continued our investment in our service expansion in February which facilitated the COVID-19 clinic relocation from the mobile unit into previous administration space at the Cibola Family Health Center. In addition, our Rehab department expanded into a 900 square foot addition to provide adequate space for several new pieces of equipment. • We maintained 243 days cash on hand despite the revenue shortfall and capital outlays.
